

TEN THOUSAND VILLAGES

About the Artisans

Asha Handicrafts Association

Asha, which means “hope” in Sanskrit, was started by professionals responding to the abject poverty of artisans, the problem of exploitative middlemen, and the disappearance of many traditional crafts. Asha’s work has encouraged the growth of cottage industries, assisting once-impooverished individuals and families towards self-sufficiency. Today, Asha works with over 6,500 artisans in India. Benefits to artisans include marketing, design consultancy, product development, advances, interest-free loans, savings programs, medical care, and educational scholarships, uniforms, and books for children. Training is given at the local level on such issues as AIDS, family planning, addictions, domestic violence and gender discrimination, as well as seminars related to business management skills. Asha empowers women by promoting products made by women and women also hold positions of authority and responsibility within the organization.

Diamond Tassel Zari Envelope Clutch

Holiday party season requires two things: good cheer and a flashy clutch in order to mingle without the bulk. This tasseled clutch showcases intricate Zari hand embroidery sewn in Mumbai, India for Asha Handicrafts. A not-for-profit organization, Asha works to ensure that benefits of handicraft production reach the craftspeople themselves.

Materials:

fabric, embroidery thread, beads

Travel the world with each visit to Ten Thousand Villages.

Learn how Fair Trade really makes a difference. Our goal is to provide vital, fair income to artisans by marketing their handicrafts and telling their stories in North America. Ten Thousand Villages sells product from more than 30 countries, providing work for nearly 60,000 people around the world.

TEN THOUSAND VILLAGES

www.tenthousandvillages.ca

©2014 TEN THOUSAND VILLAGES. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.